CMYK printing process

Any WHITE in file will be left as napkin color- no white ink is printed.

Set artwork at 80% opacity*

*Napkin's paper type cannot handle the same amount of ink that standard paper can. The paper may get too wet and wrinkle. The result can be a slight desaturation or lower contrast in colors in the image. This mostly affects rich and darker colors. Your file will be submitted to the printing press in its original form but the printed result may be slightly lighter than what is submitted.
